Re: Higher Education Energy Efficiency Partnership Best Practices in Sustainable Design Competition

Colleagues:

We are pleased to announce the winners of the Higher Education Energy Efficiency Partnership Best Practices in Sustainable Design competition for 2006. The winners for the different categories are:

Best Lighting Design:	CSU Sonoma, Campuswide Lighting Master Plan
Best HVAC Design:	CSU Sonoma, Salazar and Darwin Hall UC San Diego, Price Center expansion
Best Integrated Design Process:	UC Berkeley, Early Childhood Education Center
Best Overall Sustainable Design:	UC Los Angeles, La Kretz Hall CSU Sonoma, Student Recreation Center UC San Francisco, HS1R Major Renovation

In addition, honorable mentions are awarded to:

Best HVAC Design:	UC Los Angeles, Kinsey Hall CSU Fullerton, Central Plant
Best Overall Sustainable Design:	UC Berkeley, University Village Housing

These Best Practices were chosen for the category of new construction and major renovation projects. We currently have a Best Practices in Sustainable Operations solicitation out with proposals due this Friday April 21st. Winners for projects in the operations category will be announced in early May.

Thanks to all of you who submitted proposals and congratulations to our 2006 winners. We will look forward to seeing presentations on the winning projects at the upcoming UC/CSU Sustainability conference this June. To that end, we have engaged the Green Building Research Center at UC Berkeley to assist you with preparing a presentation. You will be contacted in the near future by them to see how they may assist you. In the mean time, if you have any questions please contact Maric Munn of my staff at (510) 987-9392.

For those of you who have received honorable mention, we would like to also work with you to find an opportunity to display a project board for your project at the Sustainability Conference. Maric Munn will be in touch with you shortly to discuss how to accomplish this.

Thanks again for your participation and making this year's Best Practices in Sustainable Design a success.
